

3 WAYS CONNECTED HEALTH IS CHANGING THE GAME

Are we already living in a healthier future? Is “tomorrow” really “today”?

It sure looks like the answer is “yes.”

For proof, start by looking at our NeuroSphere Virtual Clinic. This connected platform is helping people with pain and movement disorders in the present day. As we’ll share at the Consumer Electronics Show next month, it’s also allowing us to dream even bigger about the future of connected health tech.

How big? Let’s look at two other groundbreaking examples ...

THE REVEL IS IN THE DETAILS WHEN TECH CONNECTS

This month’s focus: Our NeuroSphere Virtual Clinic, and a quick story about its power. A man with Parkinson’s was having an issue and needed help. But he was out in the mountains in New York and his doctor was in New Jersey. What came next? “I felt like it was (the year) 2250,” he said – his doctor adjusted his treatment without needing to see him in person.
